Here is your Summary:

"Mulholland Drive" is a 2001 psychological thriller directed by David Lynch, known for its unconventional storytelling. It follows an amnesiac woman and an aspiring actress in a fragmented and nonlinear narrative, exploring the dark side of Hollywood. The film's striking visuals, unsettling score, and commentary on ambition and fame make it a masterpiece and a hallmark of Lynch's artistry, with its ambiguity inviting endless interpretation and promising an unforgettable cinematic experience.
